The Merchants' Hotel, in Fifth street, between Main and Market, is undergoing a thorough renovation. The familiar countenance of George C. Steele may be seen in the saloon -a sufficient guarantee of permanency to such as register their names. George is a noble representative of a line of good fellows of whom we read, but with whom we rarely meet.

REVOLTING .- Everybody complained of the disagreeable odor which seemed to infest the atmosphere in almost every business locality in the city yesterday. A correct analysis of the gases composing the vital elements vesterday. would have detected something foreign. In deed, it was very suggestive of a characteristic and classic expression relative to Denmark.

TT The editor of the Frankfort Commo wealth assures us that the late Frankfort Pope & Co. will not publish a protest in the Demo eral. He even says they will not use it for an purpose. That shows that they don't understan their own interest, and we now believe that the Know-Nuchings did perfectly right in dispensing with their useless services.

Il Henry Martin, who has been for many years connected with the Louisville and Ciu cinnati Mail Company as clerk, has withdrawn from his familiar place, and will take charge of the books in the office of the new steamer W H.
